

Symbio Mycorrhizal Grass Seed Coat

Aids rapid establishment of fine grasses when overseeding

Mycorrhizal Grass Seed Coat is an easy to apply product that improves root growth, nutrient uptake and resistance to stress.

Mycorrhizal Grass Seed Coat contains live spores of beneficial mycorrhizal fungi, growth-promoting soil fungi and bacteria, carbon, and organic soil nutrients to kick-start the soil's natural food web.

- Helps establish new grass seed in all areas
- Increases the percentage of fine grasses in golf and bowling greens
- Greatly improves root mass and increases nutrient uptake
- Increases a plant's tolerance to drought and stress conditions

How it works

When a healthy mycorrhizal root touches a non-mycorrhizal root, in most cases, the mycorrhizae will transfer to the weaker root, spreading the beneficial effects, improving sward growth and establishment.

Research shows that mycorrhizal grass may grow twice as fast as grass in a sterile rootzone, whilst using up to 30% less water.

Application guide

Available in 500g and 1.5kg pack sizes.

For overseeding, mix 3kg of Symbio's Mycorrhizal Seed Coat with enough grass seed to cover 10,000m²

For seeding, mix 6kg of Symbio's Mycorrhizal Seed Coat with enough grass seed to cover 10,000m²

Mix Symbio's Mycorrhizal Grass Seed Coat with your preferred grass seed in a drum or box and seed in the usual way. The aim is to achieve even coverage of seed coat across the sward using the seed as a carrier. Best results are obtained using an overseeder.
